One will hold eight class rooms for the elementary classes and the other will house the kindergarten and the offices of the principal, nurse, a general office, and a teachers room.

Both structures are centered in a 200 by 300 feet playground.

The Youth Fund Drive Is Good Community Planning

Editorial

By I. Eddie Galli

"It ain't the guns or armaments, or the army as a whole, but the everlasting teamwork of every bloomin' soul" —Kipling

Last Monday night was the kick-off dinner for the YOUTH FUND DRIVE, designed to raise thirty-five hundred dollars to finance, for the ensuing year, the El Sobrante Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, and the Teen-Age Center.

This is El Sobrante's own local drive. It has nothing to do with the starving Chinese, it will not be sent to buy playground equipment for the children in Brazil, or even to endow a bird sanctuary in Greenland. THIS DRIVE is for the KIDS of EI SOBRANTE, and the El Sobrante HERALD urges that you tighten the belt just a little and give, and give, and GIVE.

We are not giving this merely to aid a just cause, it is OUR cause. It has more long range community planning than almost anything that any architect, engineer, or city planning expert could possibly suggest.

Long range planning for the Youth of El Sobrante is only aiding in the future growth, because these children who are being aided by funds derived from this drive, will, as a result of this money expended in their behalf, grow into better adult citizens.

It is they, who, ina few short years, will take our places in this troubled world. One of them will be the Editor of our paper, some may represent us in the legislature, others will rise to judicial positions in this county, who knows that one of them might even be selected as the President of these United States.

That is the reason why it is so important to go all-out for this YOUTH FUND DRIVE. El Sobrante has never failed in aiding the children of this community. We believe that El Sobrante will come through as El Sobrante always has....and remember, it was the Christ Child who said, so many years ago, "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven".

SCHOOL BOARD STARTS CONDEMNATION ACTION AGAINST 12 ACRE TRACT

Trustees of the Pinole-Hercules School Board last Monday evening took the first steps to acquire the land necessary for the new school site for the new Pinole Elementary school. The board voted to start condemnation proceedings against a 12 acre tract of land now owned by the Hercules Water Company legal papers were signed at the meeting and fowarded to District Attorney Francis Collins who will complete the legal steps necessary to secure the land. Two members of the board Clifford Butler and Wilbur Suafford both officials of the Water company excused themselves from the meeting explaining that it would not be ethical for them to pass vote on the matter.

Board President Edward Hemleb told the trustees that this land could be purchased at approximately $15,000, it consists of a twelve acre tract on Tennant Ave. and is one of the best locations that the board could possibly acquire for the new school structure, Hemleb said.

Trustee Carl Ferrell of El Sobrante took issue with the President, he stated that he had no objection to the purchase of the land from the water company and that he had every respect for the two members who had just left the room but he doubted if the people of the district would look with favor of the board purchasing land from a corporation that one of the trustees was president of and the other an employee. President Hemleb pointed out that if the deal went through the property would be condemned in the public interest and that the water company had no other alternative than to transfer title of the property to the Board of Education. If this was an outright purchase it would be doubtful if a clear title could be issued owing to the fact that the water company could continue to hold rights of ten feet on each side of the creek. Condemnation proceedings will, he stated give the board a clear legal title to the property. The new elementary school is expected to be in service by next September and the cost of which will be in the neighborhood of $120,000.

Other business at the School Board meeting was the discussion of the landscaping of the new El Sobrante school. Howard E. Gilkey an Oakland Landscape Architect submitted three plans for landscaping the grounds, he gave the members detailed plans he quote the first plans at a professional fee of $480 the next one at $240 and the last one was a fee of $125 plus $5.00 per hour for supervising the contract. The trustees agreed to employ Gilkey on the $125 plan with the reservation that if they decide to enlarge the landscaping that this amount would apply on the more ambitious plan.

Child Welfare Rag Drive Is Planned

A child welfare rag drive, from October 31 to Nobember 2, will be sponsored by the Pinole-Hercules P.T.A. Children of the school will bring large paper bags to receive cast-off clothing which can be made useable.

SANITARY BOARD HALTS SEWER DISPOSAL PLANS

At a meeting, lasting until mid-night, the San Pablo Sanitary District trustees were presented with a deluge of written protests that may spell Doom to the District's pet project, the $1,132,958 sewage disposal plant.

Secretary Fritz Carlfield, veteran official of the distict, said that the project was bulky and in great numbers. "It will take our office staff four or five days to figure the percentages and it is quite doubtful whether the protest will reach 51 per cent of the necessary amount to scrap the assessment for a period of one year," he said.

The board members, however, did go on record to defer further action until a citizen's fact-finding committee can be appointed and delve into the various construction plans of other districts and the present one, which is causing the trustees more grief than any matter ever considered by them since the formation of the district.

The protesting citizens and taxpayers that crowded to full capacity, the large assembly room of the Market Street School last Friday evening was an unruly one, and on several occassions it almost got out of hand.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Control Atom, Keep Alert: Baruch; Senate Clashes on Price Supports; U. S. Seeks Method to End Strikes

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

A-CONTROL:

'Truly Effective'

After President Truman's announcemnt on September 23 of an atomic explosion in Russia, U.S. citizens worked up a kind of peculiar,' detached tension that seemed to have been born out of the expectation that somebody—maybe Bernard Baruch—ought to say something significant pretty soon about the world and the atom bomb.

And Mr. Baruch, who is the author of the plan for international atomic control that was rejected by the Soviets in 1946, measured up to the demand for an opinion by coming out with what looked to be some practical suggestions.

PRIMARILY, he urged that "nothing less than a truly effective" system of international control be put into effect.

He supplemented this major point with three other recommendations as to how to face up to the Russian atom:

1. Pending such "safe and sure" control, make every effort "to maintain our overwhelming advantage" in the development of atomic weapons.

2. Re-examine our strategy for peacemaking.

3. Enact a standby mobilization plan, including civilian defense, immediately.

BASIC IDEA, of course, is for the U.S. to do its moral best with the olive branch, but in the meantime keeping a gun handy, just in case.

Baruch's conception of a mobilization plan would include price, wage and rent controls, rationing priorities and anti-profiteering measures.

Russia's counter-proposal to international control—the outlawing of the bomb and international agreements to destroy all existing stocks of the atom bomb—oversimplifies the problem, Baruch said.

HE WARNED that a would-be aggressor easily could divert "peaceful" atomic material to "international blackmail and destruction."

STRIKES:

Economy Throttled

The history making double basic-industry strikes—coal and steel—were rapidly throttling the nation's economy as the first week of the twin work stoppage drew to a close, causing:

1. The layoff of about 100,000 white collar workers whose clerical services no longer were needed.

2. Furlough of 49,829 railroad men.

3. Curtailment of Packard motor company operations.

4. Reduction of steel output to an anemic 8.2 per cent of capacity.

5. Daily loss of 30 million dollars worth of business in the steel and coal industries alone.

6. Daily loss of 11 million dollars in wages to nearly 900,000 striking steel and soft-coal workers.

President Truman had indicated that he planned no direct government intervention in the strikes, but Federal Mediator Cyrus Ching was trying to figure out a new attempt to settle the disputes.

With the steel mills and coal mines idle, Ching's massive problem was to find a workable solution first of all to the pension demands of Murray's United Steelworkers and Lewis' United Mine Workers. Making it more difficult was the fact that neither the industry leaders nor the unions were in mood to make any concessions.

An added grim note was sounded by Philip Murray, CIO leader, when he warned that still another 500,000 of his steelworkers would be going on strike by the end of October unless the company-financed six-cent pension and four-cent insurance program was accepted by the steel industry.

PERCENTERS:

5, That Is

What happened to the 5 per center inquiry that was hotter than a two-dollar deep freeze box a month or two ago?

According to Senator Hoey (D., N.C.), who heads the special senate subcommittee which studied whether federal buying was improperly influenced, the probe probably won't be resumed this year; although the senator indicated that he might release a report on it soon.

"FOR ALL practical purposes the investigation already is completed," said Hoey.

However, the subcommittee was still waiting to get the testimony of James V. Hunt and David Bennett, both of whom were described as being too ill to take the stand.

Hunt is the Washington management counselor who allegedly collected fat fees for his help in seeking government contracts for others. He was the one who said, "All I have to sell is influence."

Bennett is head of the Chicago perfume house which footed the bill for several home freezers presented in 1945 to Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan.

Confidences

Trygve Lie (left), secretary general of the United Nations, chats with Bernard Baruch at dinner during which Lie received the third annual award of the American Association for the United Nations for distinguished service to the U. N.

HIGH SUPPORTS:

Good or Bad?

Despite worried administration warnings against setting farm price supports so high as to "price the farmer out of the market," the senate went ahead to hit a new parity ceiling for six basic groups.

Senators Young (R., N.D.) and Russell (D., Ga.) spearheaded the successful drive for an amendment to peg support prices on wheat, cotton, rice, corn, tobacco and peanuts at 90 per cent of parity. Previous support prices on those crops had been 75 per cent of parity.

SEN. SCOTT LUCAS of Illinois, senate Democratic leader and voice of the administration in this case, had opposed the Young-Russell amendment to Sen. Clinton Anderson's bill and had fully expected that it would be defeated in the senate.

But after a lusty battle, the measure was sent back to the agriculture committee where attempts were made to work out a compromise.

Senators Anderson, Aiken and Lucas had argued that a high-support measure, keeping food prices high, might one day cause consumers to rebel and possibly throw out the entire price support program.

Backers of the 90 per cent parity legislation contended that any serious lag in farm prices could set off a depression affecting the whole national economy.

THERE MATTERS stood for the time being. Prior to the senate fight on the support bill, however, Sen. Scott Lucas had delivered himself of an opinion that could, under the right circumstances, turn out to be prophetic:

"When the government continues to subsidize a little more and a little more all the time—without sticking to a farm program dealing with the basic commodities that can be controlled—you are taking a chance that the whole thing may be struck down."

BIRTHDAY:

U. N.'s Fourth

October 24 is United Nations Day.

The organization, wherein repose the hopes for peace of all free and thinking men, is just four years old—four years old as the passage of time goes, but already ageless in its experience and the good it has accomplished.

WHAT HAS THE United Nations done since it first convened during the immediate aftermath of World War II in 1945?

First of all, it has constantly kept the hope and prospect of peace alive in the minds of the world's people. It has come to mean, to the common man, a functioning object lesson that "working it out is better than shooting it out."

The U.N. already has definitely stopped three wars—in India, in Palestine and Indonesia.

IT IS LEADING millions of non-self-governing territories toward the realization of self-government.

On the basis of the best evidence, the U.N. has contributed enormously toward the job of keeping the peace won through the bloodshed of World War II.

The birthday of the United Nations—October 24—is a day to fix in memory. Odds are that in terms of human achievement and benefit and the dignity of man, history will write that date as being one of unparalleled significance and importance.

Border Backfire

When the Russians eased their border travel restrictions at Frankfurt, Germany, to draw west Germans into the Soviet zone for Communist "Peace Day" demonstrations, the results were reminiscent of the fabled halfback with the pointed head who ran 90 yards for a touchdown—the wrong way.

Thousands of eastern Germans poured into the western zone, while only about 500 went the other way.

The Washington MERRY-GO-ROUND

DREW PEARSON

Steel Dispute

ONE FACTOR which has made the steel dispute so difficult is that both sides' hands have been semi-tied by other forces.

Tier of Phil Murray's hands is—John L. Lewis. Since Lewis, an old rival and bitter enemy of Murray, got a welfare fund from the coal operators under which the miners pay nothing, Murray cannot require his union to contribute to pensions without losing part of his membership.

Tiers of U.S. Steel's hands are—Its banks and directors. The men who control the big steel companies, particularly U.S. Steel, are J. P. Morgan together with a group of industrialists and insurance men who do not want a pension pattern set for their industries. If the steel industry pays pensions without any contribution from labor, it will set a standard for almost every other industry in the country.

Who Runs U.S. Steel?

For instance, directors of U.S. steel include:

Walter Gifford—chairman of the giant American Telegraph and Telephone Company, which also faces wage and pension problems.

Sewell Avery—head of Montgomery Ward, who once was ejected from his Chicago office by U.S. troops during a labor strike. Avery is also chairman of U.S. Gypsum, director of the Pullman Company, Pure Oil, Armour, Peoples Gas, Light and Coke, which also faces wage and pension problems.

James Black—head of Pacific Gas and Electric, a guiding executive of the Southern Pacific railway and director of various insurance and utility companies.

George A. Sloan—director of Goodyear tire, Bankers Trust, American Alliance Insurance Co., and a group of insurance companies.

When the President's fact-finding board first published its recommendations, Sept. 10, for a 10-cent pension and insurance plan, some U.S. steel executives indicated to newsmen that this would be acceptable. Then, suddenly, on Sept. 11, word was passed out that the bankers behind U.S. steel objected. They did not want big steel to set up a pension pattern for other industries under which labor did not contribute.

Note 1—John L. Lewis already has started to crow over Phil Murray in the United Mine Workers Journal for surrendering on the fourth round of wage increases. Insiders say he is just itching to crow again on any Murray compromise over pensions.

Note 2—It was U.S. steel—which owns extensive captive coal mines—which helped set the welfare fund pattern by which John L. Lewis and his miners do not have to contribute to the fund. If this precedent had not been set, it would have been easier for both Murray and steel to do business.

Bilbo's Lawyer

It looks like the lawyer who defended the late Senator Bilbo of Mississippi against charges brought in the U.S. senate now would be paid $6,000 by the same senate which did not seat Bilbo.

The lawyer, Forrest Jackson, served as Bilbo's attorney in warding off impeachment. Bilbo, because of his health was never impeached, and died before any proceedings were brought.

Therefore, since it is customary for the taxpayers to pay for a senator's defense as long as he is not impeached attorney Jackson turned in his bill to the senate, and the man who replaced Bilbo, Sen. John Stennis, tried to get the senate to pay.

Truman on Farm Phones

One of the first persons President Truman saw after announcing that Russia had exploded the atom was genial Jim Patton, boss of the National Farmers Union.

"That's mighty tough business, Mr. President," Patton said, as he entered the presidential office.

"I had to make the announcement once we were sure," replied Truman, in tight-lipped seriousness. "I can assure you it wasn't tasteful."

Turning to a more peaceful topic, the President promised Patton his full support in getting the rural telephone bill through the senate during this session. It has already passed the house.

"Farmers are really steamed up about this bill," reported Patton. "They feel they have as much right to a telephone as city folks. Also, the practical need for bringing phone service to farms that do not have it is getting more urgent all the time. Brooders and other equipment on a great many farms now are operated by electricity.

When there are breakdowns, farmers have great difficulty getting a repair man if they don't have telephones."

Oyster Digestion

An oyster feeds itself by opening its shell slightly to admit the mineral waters of the sea. Its food is minute plant and animal life, gently absorbed from an intake of water that a human could match proportionately only by drinking 100 gallons a day.

Kidneys Must Work Well

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

Make Pinwheel Chicken Casserole from Leftovers
(See Recipe Below)

Plan Leftovers

PLANNED LEFTOVERS? "Never heard of such a thing," says one homemaker, while another comes back with the comment, "Certainly, plan to have leftovers, if you want to save meal preparation time and food money."

If you think the family won't eat leftovers, you've probably never presented them properly because, really, leftovers can be glamorous! Just see how pretty chicken casserole looks in the picture. Then glance at some of the other recipes we're giving!

Have you ever thought why it's economical to buy a roast? For the simple reason that you can have it for another meal or two. This holds true for many cuts of meat which the family cannot consume at one sitting.

THIS CHICKEN CASSEROLE is a good example since it's extended with eggs and flavorsome mushrooms. The pinwheel parsley biscuits floating on top the creamy and savory mixture make the dish hard to resist. Makes you want to go out and roast a chicken to have some leftovers, doesn't it?

Pinwheel Chicken Casserole
(Serves 4—6)

- 1½ cups cooked chicken meat
- 2—4 hard-cooked eggs, coarsely chopped
- 4 tablespoons fat
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ teaspoon ginger
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon scraped onion
- 1 can mushrooms, if desired
- Parsley Biscuits

Make a sauce by melting fat, blending in flour and milk. Season well with salt, pepper, ginger and onion. Arrange layers of chicken, eggs and mushrooms into a greased six-cup capacity casserole that is from 2½ to 3 inches deep. Pour hot sauce over all. Bake, covered, in a hot oven (400°) until sauce is bubbly, 30 to 40 minutes. Top with parsley biscuits. Note: If you have leftover gravy, substitute it for the sauce made of fat, flour and milk.

Parsley Biscuits: Prepare biscuit dough, using 2 cups flour or 2 cups biscuit mix. Roll dough ¼ inch thick. Grease slightly and sprinkle with ½ cup finely chopped parsley over surface. Roll like jelly roll, then slice ½ inch thick to bake. Biscuits may be baked in oven at same time as casserole.

Roast Beef Pie
(Serves 4—6)

- ½ cup minced onion
- ½ cup minced celery
- 2 tablespoons fat
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups leftover beef or pork, cut in pieces
- 1 cup cooked, diced potatoes
- 1 cup cooked, sliced carrots
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1 tablespoon worcestershire sauce
- 1 3-ounce can browned mushrooms with broth
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup leftover gravy

Cook onion and celery in fat until golden colored. Stir in flour, then add remaining ingredients. Simmer for 10 minutes. Pour mixture into individual baking dishes and top with pastry. Brush crust with slightly beaten egg white, then bake in a hot (425°) oven for 25 minutes.

Pastry for Roast Beef Pie: Sift together 1 cup flour with ½ teaspoon salt and work in ⅓ cup shortening until mixture is crumbly. Add 2—3 tablespoons cold water and toss mixture with fork until blended. Flute edges as for pie crust after topping meat pies.

Beef-Noodle Casserole
(Serves 6)

- 2½ cups roast beef, cut in shreds
- 2 tablespoons shredded green pepper
- 1 onion diced
- 2 tablespoons fat
- 1 cup celery, diced
- 1 can tomato soup
- 2 cups cooked noodles
- Salt and pepper to taste
- ½ cup buttered bread crumbs

Brown onion and celery in fat; add green pepper and meat, then tomato soup. Place meat mixture and noodles alternately in a two-quart greased casserole after seasoning to taste with salt and pepper. Top with buttered crumbs and bake in a hot oven (400°) for 30 minutes.

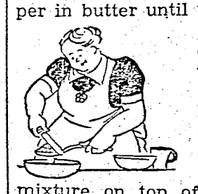
HERE ARE TWO excellent recipes for using the last of the ham.

Ham Slices in Corn
(Serves 6)

- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1 chopped onion
- 1 shredded green pepper
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 1 cup canned corn kernels
- 1 cup bread crumbs
- Salt, pepper, sugar
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup milk

Fry celery, onion and green pepper in butter until tender. Add egg, corn and bread crumbs. Season with salt, pepper and sugar. Place ham slices in a square baking dish or casserole and spread corn mixture on top of them. Make a sauce by using butter in which vegetables were cooked by blending in flour, then adding milk, stirring constantly, and cook until thickened. Pour sauce over ham and corn and bake in a slow (325°) oven for 35 to 40 minutes.



LYNN SAYS:
Here are Little Ideas With Lots of Flavor

For fish or salads serve a sauce of soured cream, the thick, smooth kind. Season it with salt and pepper, some chopped chives or grated onion and a bit of diced cucumber.

Garnish those steamed puddings with grapes dipped in beaten egg white and fine granulated sugar for a frosted touch.

Mix some marjoram with salt and pepper and use the mixture on broiled steak for real flavor.

Don't forget to serve cranberry sauce with pork as well as with chicken and turkey. A few seedless raisins added to the sauce make it an excellent side dish with the meat.

Salted walnut halves put together with cream cheese to which a bit of anchovy paste is added, are a neat trick to serve with tomato juice as a first course.

Paper thin slices of ham make an excellent snack if you spread them with cream cheese seasoned with onion juice. Serve with thin, buttered slices of rye bread.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger C. Whitman

QUESTION: I have a dining-room set with a lacquer finish. The top of the table is scratched. Could I just finish the top, or do I have to do the whole thing over?

ANSWER: If the finish is scratched all over, I believe you would get more satisfaction by doing a good job of refinishing the top in the right way, rather than varnishing over the scratches. You can take off the scratched lacquer with a small, portable electric sander, which can be either bought or rented in the larger cities.

QUESTION: I get the hot afternoon sun in my living-room and dinette. Is the old saying true—namely, that the sun will fade and ruin your furniture? I like the sunlight in the rooms and don't like to pull the shades down. Have you any suggestions on this problem

ANSWER: If the fabrics are not sun-fast, they probably will fade to some extent. Slip covers would help to protect the furniture in the summertime. Some varnishes become checked if left exposed to direct sunlight. A hot sun also may cause a delicate or very old fabric to disintegrate

Navy Day Comes At Darkest Hour

The celebration of Navy Day on October 27, comes this year at one of the darkest hours in the history of our sea forces.

The extensive cuts in naval power in favor of air power is causing grave concern among to Navy men. Even the public is beginning to wonder if the emphasis on air strength at the expense of our sea power isn't being carried a bit too far.

As laymen, we are in no position to determine whether the present policy of our National Department is a wise one or not. We know, however, that in the last war as in all other conflicts where naval power could be used, the American Navy has done a magnificent job. And we have no doubt that, given the proper weapons, the Navy will perform just as admirably in any future crisis.

Improved Methods Of Controlling Black Widow Spiders Found

Contra Costa residents troubled with black widow spiders can now make use of improved control methods developed by the University of California. Milton R. Bell, of the university says the material now recommended is known as lindane. It is a chemical containing not less than 99 per cent of the gamma isomer of benzene hexachloride. The College of Agriculture has found that adequaet dosage applied to surfaces frequented by these pests has killed all spiders contacted and reinvasion prevented for over two months. The recommended spray is made by mixing one half pound of 25 per cent wettable lindane per gallon of water. One gallon at this concentration should be used on each 300 to 400 square feet of surface treated.

In addition to chemical control, black widow spiders should be discouraged by cleaning up debris which provides shelter for them, and by tightly screening all openings leading into all parts of the house from basement to attic.

Those desiring further details may consult the Agricultural Extension Service, Cowell; telephone Concord 8517.

BOARD HALTS SEWER

tained by the district "as an expert legal authority", fared worse than any of the other speakers. From the moment of his introduction the catcalls, boo's and an occassional bronx cheer enlivened the meeting. Finally he shouted that he would leave the platform unless the audiance permitted him to speak without further interruption.

Frances Healey, attorney for the idstrict and fomer District Attorney for Contra Costa County, likewise spoke with great difficulty but he fared somewhat better than Wilson.

Wilson told the assembly that the board was powerful and by a majority of one vote could, if so desired, overrule even the legal objections of 51 per cent of the tax-payers and build the disposal plant, a measure which is required, he shouted, by the California Board of Health. Bryant Rolland, one of the leaders in the movement to have the plan scrapped revealed in a mimeographed communication which he passed out free to the large crowd, that the two lawyers representing the Sanitary District, were to receive a fee of two per cent of the $1,132,958 and that furthermore, this fee is contingent on the assessment being carried through. Scrapping of the measure would force the two attorneys to take a smaller fee, described in the minutes of a previous meeting, as a "reasonable fee."

The trustees passed a motion authorizing a citizens fact finding committee. Trustee Roy Cleek, who left a sick bed to be present at the meeting and to offer his plan, made the motion that each of the improvement clubs from the entire area are to present the names of three of their membership, he asked that the American Federation of Labor and the C. I. O. forward three names of their membership, and that from these names the San Pablo Sanitary District Trustees would set up the Citizens Fact Finding Committee.

This committee will explore the present controversial plan, they will look into the plans of the adjoining sanitary districts, they will be empowered to seek the advice of a neutral engineer and then will make recommendations to the Sanitary Board and to the tax-payers of the district.

Attorney John J. Pierce, retained by the El Sobrante Improvement Club, received a large ovation when he rose to speak against the assessment plan. Pierce told the crowd that he believed by inviting another district to a partnership with this district, that money could be saved. The crowd laughed when Pierce said, "I would not be a member of the San Pablo Sanitary District for all the tea in China."

Members of the El Sobrante group stated after the meeting, that Pierce had aided greatly in the work. If it were not for his discovery that the original protest forms circulated at a previous meeting were not correct legal form, then all of the thousands of protests presented at last Fridays meeting could have been thrown out and the protest would have been of no avail.

Boys Club Suffers Third Straight Loss

Last Sunday, October 16, at the El Cerrito High School, El Sobrante played the Amerian Legion team of El Cerrito. El Sobrante suffered it's third straight defeat. El Sobrante collected 12 hits including 3 doubles and a home run. El Cerrito also got 12 hits and came out on top with a final score of 11 to 4. Jim Landis who wears the El Sobrante Pharmacy uniform hit safely in four times at bat. Gene Plummer, sponsored by Locke's Hardware, hit his first home run of the season with a man on base. El Cerritto made four double plays to stop several of El Sobrante's scoring threats. This game was a practice game for El Sobrante as their League game was postponed for a week.

EL SOBRANTE VETERANS NEWS

By Bob Lotlord

--AN APOLOGY

We wish to apologize to the Recreation Council for the incorrect statement printed in this column last week.

The erroneons statement was made as a result of misinformation and a misunderstending on the part of this reporter.

The Recreation Council DID NOT "laugh off" the problem of chaperoning the Teen Age Dance. On the contrary, they demonstrated their determination to continue the Teen Age program by requesting the Veterans of El Sobrante to assist in supplying chaperones for the Thursday night dances. This we are glad to do.

This column very much regrets this error, and wishes to commend the Recreation Council on their effective work with the Teen Age Group.

Ken Mac Eachern, being a member of the VFW of San Pablo, wants to remind all hen-pecked husbands that they are having their annual Stag Pary at 8 p.m., November 4, at Maple Hall. Tickets will be sold for the small sum of $1.50. If you want a good time, that will be the place to go.

October being the month to don masks and costumes, and get into the Halloween spirit of ghosts and gobblens, Chairman Ralph Ver Lenden and Bill Downey are planning the monthly Vet's party, which is a Masked Ball.

October 22 is the date the committee has suggested for the party. Part of the entertainment will be an original Hula-Hula Dance, direct from the Islands.

In the past the Vets have always shown the people a grand time, with good music and fine food, so be sure not to miss this dance. It will top all the rest.

With rapid growth of membership and ever mounting business transactions, the Vets Club has set up a new bookkeeping system, and they have also purchased a typewriter for the Secretary and Treasurer to use.

Cliff Neilson is our new secretary and has done a wonderful job of keeping the minutes under the old set-up.

The typewriter was purchased from our club member, Joe Ware, for a very reasonable amount. The Club thanks Joe for his kind and generous offer.

The question of a New Years Ball came up the other night at the Club meeting. Some think it to be a swell idea while others frown on it. But all-in-all it might be well to have one because it will keep a lot more cars off the highway and may save a few accidents. Watch for the next announcement as to whether the ball will be held or not.

Carl Palmer wants to remind every one of the El Sobrante Youth Fund Drive that is taking place this week. The money donated is for the sole purpose of our El Sobrante Youths. Please give and give generously.

RANDOM NOTES

Morrie Lerch wishes to announce that he plans to hold open house at his home October 22. Refreshments will be served with plenty for everybody. Oh! You would like to know where he lives? Well, here it is, 4588 Santa Rita Road. Now that you know, lets go.

John Bressam says things are looking up for his bowling team. The team won one game and lost one.

George Schrader, chairman for the Boy Scout Explorer's Club, announces the time for a re-registration of officers o f the Club. At present, Joe Ware and Larry Brockett are part of the committee . James Bruno was appointed to the committee by a majority vote of the Club.

Fire Chief Charlie Matteson and Hoseman Jim Trantafel came into the meeting late last Wed. night because they were preforming their duties at a fire on La Paloma Hill.

INTRODUCING: James Bruno, 4526 Dam Road, a hard worker and a good member.

I can't say Jim is getting gray around the temples,,, but he sure has been through the mill. Jim was born in Derville, Italy, 43 years ago. At that time, not being old enough to know what was going on, his parents brought him to America. As Jim grew older he knew that this was the land for him. When World War II broke out he saw his duty and joined the ranks of fighting men. Being able to speak a foreign language he was made an interpreter and provost marshall. He was attached to the 1041 petro Division of the C.B.

Most of Jims service was centered around North Africa and France, where he earned three Bronze Stars, one Citation, and took part in the Normandy beach head. He held the very worthy rank of Electricians Mate 2 s and when he was discharged on October 27, 1945 he continued on with his trade as an electrician.

Jim married the former Theresa Taranto of Nashwak, Minnesota, and they made their home in El Sobrante. They have two very fine children, Mary Ann, 14, and Clarine who is 10.

For a hobby, Jim loves to fish, hunt, and play all sports and he often lends Mrs. Bruno a hand with her hobby of making leather goods.

NITA'S CHATTER

It is my aim to keep you posted in thought on the trend and values of the latest and up to the minute in farbics, colors and styles which, in my opinion are good from the standpoint of their ability to turn out best in Dry Cleaning.

This week in my shopping I found at Albert's Department Store 5 numbers in all wool tweed. This is a flecked fabric in blue, gray, oatmeal, tan and the good old standby, black and white. Priced $3.50 per yard, 60 inches wide. This in comparison to similar fabrics is a good buy. However, the fabric must be pre-shrunk before making up and that is a service which we render.

Any assistance that I can give you may be had by calling Richmond 1989-M.

Foes Again Fear Fordham, Pitt

By GRANTLAND RICE

SOME YEARS AGO football had three big teams marching under winning banners. They were Pittsburgh, coached by late Jock Sutherland, Fordham, directed by Jimmy Crowley, and New York university, handled by Chick Meehan.

They formed a rugged triumvirate, directed by three fine coaches, willing to play anybody, and usually successful.

Grantland Rice

Then they all decided to give big-time football the Arctic air. They turned their coaches loose to graze in foreign pastures or to make up some other occupation. All of the schools went downhill at a dizzy clip.

Now in the case of two of these universities there has been a turn to the past. Old ghosts are back again. Pittsburgh grew extremely weary of playing a schedule no one could face. Pitt apparently wanted to break into the Big Ten.

At any rate, the Panther decided to be a wolf in Panther clothing. Pittsburgh had a lucky break in being able to get Captain Tom Hamilton from Navy. Tom was both a good coach and a fine athletic director at the academy. He was given the job of rebuilding Pittsburgh, with the aid of Walter Milligan, the Panther coach.

Pitt began improving last fall. This season the Panther schedule includes William and Mary, Northwestern, Indiana, Minnesota, Ohio State, Pennsylvania and Penn State. This is a big-time schedule, and Hamilton is trying to field a big-time team, good enough to hold its own. Starting in 1950 Pitt will play Notre Dame for four consecutive years.

The same change of mind has struck the Fordham Ram. Fordham doesn't meet all comers, east and west, north and south as Fordham and Pitt once did. Years ago, Pittsburgh was even too hardy for Notre Dame, who left the Panther alone for a while.

But Fordham is moving out again. This season the improved Rams meet Yale, Army, Boston College, Syracuse, Georgetown, Rutgers and N.Y.U.

This is a good schedule—possibly a trifle more than the Ram can digest at this spot in his return to old-fashioned years—when Fordham picked the best in the country.

The Tribe of Murphy

Many years ago, probably the greatest of all trainers and coaches combined worked at Yale and Pennsylvania.

His time goes back more than 40 years. His name was Mike Murphy. There is no one living today—whether he be a Yaleman or a Pennsylvania man, a football player or a track man—who worked under Mike Murphy who won't tell you that here was the all-time tops.

Mike was something more than a star trainer and a fine coach. He was an inspiration to all who knew him.

His grandson, Bill Murphy, is now one of the coming stars at Dartmouth. Young Bill may be one of the best men on Tuss McLaughry's Green squad—that won't be so green.

A few days ago I met another Mike Murphy, the son of Thorne Murphy and grandson of old Mike.

Young Mike is now in a western prep school but he, also, will be heard from before too long. He is a good-looking, well built kid who is a promising football player and a first-rate track man. His father played at Yale well over 20 years ago. His uncle is George Murphy, the famous motion picture star.

Young Mike wasn't quite sure what his destination would be later on but he gave me the impression that he was looking at Yale and Dartmouth. The chances are he'll head for Dartmouth as Yale isn't getting its share of young star football players the way old Eli once did.

Ranking Ray Robinson

It has been the general opinion of those who follow the ring game closely that Ray Robinson has been the world's best all-around fighter for some years. Certainly since Joe Louis moved over the hill quite a while back.

If you start comparing Robinson with Stanley Ketchel you immediately wade into the middle of a verbal typhoon. The old Ketchel rooters, those who saw him fight, won't tolerate any comparison with anyone. Ketchel died at the age of 24, just when he was on his way up.

Harry Greb was wrecking heavyweights before he began to lose his eyesight. Any middleweight good enough to trim Gene Tunney and Tommy Gibbons, one after the other, had to be good. Later on Tunney got his revenge. For all of that Greb was a great fighter.

SPORTSMAN'S HORIZON

By JIM RHODY

Would It Help?

Agitation is beginning to mount for state laws making it a special offense when one hunter accidentally wounds or kills another while in field or forest.

Supporters of this "special legislation" idea claim that with the annual loss of life in hunting accidents showing little, if any, decrease, something should be done by the states to impress upon all hunters the need for safety and safety practices.

Each year the warnings are repeated, each year the death toll is recorded just the same.

Under common law, a man killing another hunter may be prosecuted under the manslaughter statutes in most states; but the record shows that the accidental factor is usually sufficient for acquittal—and all the careless gunner who has killed a man has to worry about is his own conscience.

Be sure before you shoot.

The problem is a big one and a broad one, and it would be extremely difficult to enact special laws to protect hunters from themselves and at the same time continue to cloak these same hunters with all the privileges and presumptions of pre-accident innocence now provided generally by the law.

However, there is no denying that a legislative approach to the problem of protecting hunters, with carelessness and the old "I didn't know it was loaded," or "I thought it was a deer" excuses banned as exemptions from punishment, might have a salutary effect.

There is little doubt, too, if the annual slaughter of humans afield continues, the steps already being talked about will certainly be attempted.

Never shoot at signs no matter what kind. In many cases it is against the law. It's always against the law of common decency. Always restrain the ignorant acts of another.

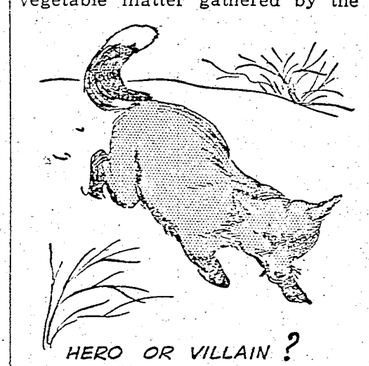
A Word for Reynard

The hunter or trapper who occasionally finds a pheasant wing, fawn remains, or grouse feathers in a fox den, interprets his finding as a sample of widespread predation on game, and foresees declining game numbers as the result, is not reckoning with the fact that mice and other rodents are Reynard's basic diet.

Food studies over the past 20 years, by D. F. Switzenberg, Wisconsin conservation department game biologist, have shown that food items found in fox dens do not constitute a too reliable index to the animal's feeding habits. Dens do not show all the animal and vegetable matter gathered by the fox, especially small items such as mice, insects and fruits which usually are swallowed whole. Neither can the hunter or trapper be positive that the pheasant, for example, was killed by the fox and not by something else, but dragged into the den by Reynard.



HERO OR VILLAIN?

In a North Dakota survey of fox eating habits last year, Switzenberg points out, an examination of 72 fox stomachs revealed the following diet: 47 per cent mice, 23 per cent carrion, 14 per cent rabbits, 9 per cent vegetation, 4 per cent game birds, 2 per cent insects and 1 per cent non-game birds.

Wasps for Trout

This is only for the more courageous, of course, but the grubs from wasps' nests makes good trout bait.

These nests usually may be found clustered under the eaves of houses, garages or other buildings. The nests can be knocked down with a broom—but the knocker-downer had better run.

After the wasps have settled down again, the nests can be picked up and sections carried in pocket or creel.

New Role for Helicopter

The versatile helicopter has found itself a new role — stocking remote lakes with game fish. The Olympic national park in Washington state witnessed what is believed to be the first such exhibition when a low-hovering sky jeep "planted" thousands of trout fry in 15 high lakes of the Olympic mountains.

Mt. McKinley's Timberline

Tickling the clouds above 20,000 feet, the far-north Alaskan giant, Mt. McKinley, has a low timber line at only 3,000 feet above its base. By contrast, Ecuador's Chimborazo—with an altitude only slightly higher than McKinley's, but a location close to the Equator—has a timber line between 15,000 and 16,000 feet up its slopes.

In drilling for oil, man makes his deepest earth penetration without going below the surface himself. Beginning of Textile Industry

Spinning wheel of the 14th century, the fly shuttle of the early 18th century, and the steam loom of Edmund Cartwright in 1785 provided the first real impetus to weaving. But it required the inventive ability of many early Americans, the skill of many others in the late 19th century, to give the world today its present textile industry. Great electrically driven looms today work automatically, so delicately adjusted that the instant one warp yarn breaks the loom stops until the broken thread is repaired.

Nasturtium Leaves

Here is an interesting bit of information for the housewife who would like to have something different to put into her husband's lunch pail. Nasturtium leaves make very tasty sandwich fillings, and the green seed pods may be pickled and eaten as a substitute for capers.

Breeding Associations

Dairy farmers who own several hundred cows will find it economically practical to form an artificial breeding association and have their cows bred to proven bulls by artificial insemination but the cost of such service is too high for one farmer unless he owns a large number of cows.

Tapir a Glutton

The amount of food consumed in one night by a tapir is enormous, and, together with the water imbibed, may vary from one-seventh to one-fifth the total weight of the animal.

Hailstones

Hailstones are made of layers of compact snow and ice, formed about a central core like an onion. They are built up like this through the freezing of rain drops and successive gathering of coatings of snow and frost.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Fit Toys to Children's Needs and Choices

By Ertta Haley

YOU'VE HEARD about the father who brings a fancy electric train to the hospital for his newborn son, and have probably thought it quite a joke. Experts, however, tell us the same type of things happens practically all the time when parents buy toys for children, and then the story ceases to be a joke and becomes somewhat pitiful.

Mother buys a fancy doll for the three year old daughter, probably thinking this is the doll she would always have wanted and never had. Result? She gets frantic every time the precious doll is dragged along the sidewalk or goes into the wash bowl for a dunking.

Another question bewildered parents often ask takes the following form: "Jackie has so many toys, and such nice things, too, but he never seems interested in them." True, the child may have a lot of toys as well as the instinct for play, but the toys are probably above his age level.

It's natural for parents to think their youngsters smarter than they are, and this is particularly true in purchasing toys. Those who know say the adults who buy toys overestimate their youngsters ability by about two years.

If a toy is too advanced for the child, it gets relegated to the bottom of the bin, no matter how pretty or expensive or clever it is. When the toy is too nice such as an expensive doll, dishes, train or auto, parents get spastic at what the child may do to injure it, and this may make strain at playtime which should be a free and happy activity.

Scientific Study Used In Toy Making

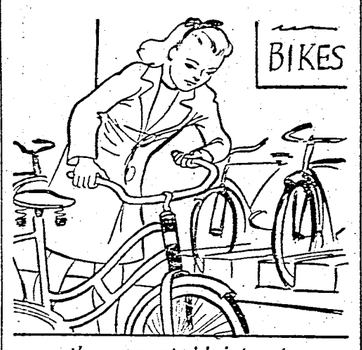
The situation need not be as desperate as it sounds. Lots of study has gone into making toys and fitting each age and activity group.

Consult the age group for your child and select from the suggested list I'm going to give. Study your child and his activities and interests and get further clues. If necessary, take him to the store and see what interests him. Let sales people help you since they're usually experienced and know pretty well what's popular with the younger set.

Play patterns do not change much over the years. A doll and buggy is pretty much of a necessity for the five year old girl while the boy of three can fall pretty hard for a tricycle. Most toys are pretty much standardized as to age groups, and you can't go wrong if you use well tested information.

Choose Safe Toys

Rattles of different sizes and shapes with varied grips add interest to baby's ambitious efforts to learn to use his muscles. Like all properly chosen baby's toys, these are lightweight, washable and safe for sucking, and interest which is strongest during the first year. There should be no loose parts which the child can swallow.



the youngster's' interests.

Why such a fuss about toys? To make you and the youngsters happier. With proper toys you can partially relegate them to their playroom when you have important household duties and want to get them out from underfoot.

Youngsters, too, will be happier with the right toys which add much to intellectual and muscular development.

Infant Appreciates Rattles, Cuddly Toys

By the time a baby is three months old, he'll be interested in watching daddy maneuver a balloon or a quacking duck. Within a very short time he'll enjoy brandishing rattles himself and will appreciate the varied shapes and sounds which American toy makers have been developing through a watchful study of infants' activities.

Sitting up is the next milestone; you may then introduce baby to cuddly animals and dolls. Then, when teething starts, the cherub becomes an enthusiastic customer for toys to bite. You'll find a variety of plastic and wood rings, beads and other shapes designed scientifically to meet this specific play need.

Textures are the next interest. It's smart to have some of smooth plastic like a rattle, then a plush bear for contrast and a yielding rubber duck that's fun to squeeze.

It's important, when choosing for these very young children, to avoid anything which might strain the baby's muscles. Make certain the toys are lightweight. Never have small parts that can be pried loose with baby fingers to be swallowed. American toy makers choose paints and dyes that are safe for inveterate suckers, so there's no danger of the child getting lead poisoning.

Be Smart!

There's plenty of newness in the constantly growing fashion for fur-lined coats. First, the new three-quarter and finger-tip lengths come in for a portion of the fashion spotlight. The second news is color, gorgeously colored woolens, with many of the browns, grays, and blacks with furs to harmonize closely. In other cases, the jewel-like reds and wonderful fall greens are in deliberate contrast to the furs. Thirdly, the fashion treatment is at the other extreme of the fur-lined coats of yesteryear. The richest furs, such as mink, now are used in coat and suit ensembles.

Fewer Pedestrians Figure In 1948 Traffic Deaths

CHICAGO.—Fewer pedestrians walked themselves to death during 1948 than the year before.

There were 9,850 pedestrian traffic deaths last year, according to the 1949 edition of "Accident Facts," statistical yearbook of the National Safety Council. This was 3 per cent below the 1947 total of 10,450.

The yearbook points out that last year was the first since motor vehicle deaths have been tabulated by type of accident that pedestrian deaths were fewer than deaths from two-vehicle collisions.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

Nag Unregenerate into Reform

"WILL YOU PLEASE tell us which is right, mother or ourselves?" writes 16-year-old Mary Kralisch of Minneapolis. "There are four of us, Joe, 20, Lisa 18, my twin brother Bill and myself.

"Ten years ago my father deserted us. There was no trouble; no trouble, that is, that wasn't very common in the neighborhood where we lived. Everyone was poor, every flat was crowded, there were too many children screaming about; winters were one long nightmare of colds, fights, noise, money shortage, dirt, struggle of all sorts. We scrambled up as best we could, and the finest little mother in the world stood by us. She used to put the big bucket of suds in the middle of the kitchen every night, and everyone of us got scrubbed, although mother was janitress of a thirty-apartment building and had plenty of scrubbing to do without worrying about us. Our clothes were clean, too, for school and church, anyway, and even when a meal was nothing but bread and milky tea, it was served in a tidy kitchen.

"Bitter cold nights we had hot cocoa in bed, and in the burning hot summers mother always let us run pretty free, to find coolness and baths and watermelon and summer camps wherever generous people offered them.

Pop Walks Out

"That was the woman Pop walked out on, ten years ago. When Joe and Lisa got their first jobs, while still in high school, the first thing they did was move us away. We bought a double house near town, and mother had her own ground under her feet for the first time in her life. We all worked; in war time we made as much as $200 a week. Bills got paid, and my mother never stopped saying how grateful she was for the peace of mind her children had brought to her.

". . . the big bucket of suds . . ."

"Three months ago my father walked back into the kitchen. How he found us we don't know, but there he was. We were decent enough to him at first thinking he would get a job and contribute his share to the family finances and show by his attitude that he regretted his disgraceful abandonment of us years ago.

He Doesn't Work

"But he hasn't done anything of the kind. He doesn't work, he criticizes everything, he wants the best of everything, he asks Joe and Lisa for money, and says openly that he is our father and that we ought to support him. This would be bad enough but mother's attitude makes it worse. She is a perfect slave to him, carrying in his coffee at ten o'clock, expecting us to respect him, and reminding us every little while that he is our father, and that she promised to love and cherish him until death parts them. She washes his clothes, cooks what he likes, and won't let anyone murmur any criticism.

"Do you think we should put up with this? We have grown up without a father's help, protection or affection. We knew years of privation, while mother struggled day and night to support us. We have gained happiness, self-respect, solvency, and the addition of this untidy, critical old man to our group ruins everything. Mother is 44, American born, my father is 50, born in Hungary. Tell us what to do."

My dear Mary, this is really a predicament; your mother as well as your father is failing you. True, she did carry you youngsters through the hardest years, sacrificing and working for you, but she has no right now to impose this disreputable and disagreeable man upon you.

If he will not pull himself together, brace up, get a job—any sort of job, and treat his children with the consideration they have so well earned, then I think you four are quite justified in asking that he live somewhere else. And yet, easy as that is to say, it is quite different to put into effect. Your mother will object strenuously to such a change; and you are all too young to feel free yourselves.

So my advice is to take your mother into your councils, and tell her how disturbed you are that the loved home she did so much to save is threatened by this irresponsible man. Nag them both steadily and constantly.

He did not help to raise you; now you get together and raise him. "Stop being unreasonable, Dad. Don't use that tone, Dad. Say 'thank you' to Mom, Dad. Go put on a clean shirt, Dad. That's enough crabbing, Dad."

He'll try not to pay attention. He'll have to.

Fossils Awe Ocu Indians

Panama Find Expected To Push Back History

OCU, PANAMA — A Smithsonian Institution scientist is coming from Washington, D. C., to this little jungle village to examine a find of fossil bones that may extend knowledge of central America back a million years.

The fossils are the first of their kind to be discovered in Panama or surrounding countries. Up to now, the rank growth of the tropical countries has hidden all traces of what the region was like before mankind appeared on the scene.

While the find has attracted international interest among scientists, it has thrown the Indians of this out of the way community into a superstitious silence. They look with awe upon the ribs four feet long and the leg bones 15 times larger than human ones that have been uncovered.

Some of the bones have been reasonably well identifed as belonging to a toxodon, a beast which long ago disappeared from the world's surface. It was about nine feet long and shaped like a rhinoceros. Other bones seem to be those of a giant ground sloth, which grew as much as 20 feet tall!

Some of the bones have been completely turned to agate by their hundreds of thousands of years in the earth.

They were found about six miles from here, in a spot known as Rincon Santo, which means in Spanish Sacred Corner. Possibly because of odd things that were found there in the forgotten past, the spot has always been looked upon by the Indians with reverence.

Something in the soil of the land around the Sacred Corner acts upon buried objects to preserve them and turn them to stone. The actual discovery of the bones was made by Joaquin Carrizo, manager of a local hotel which has a unique facade made of petrified wood perhaps a million years old.

He was hunting for additional wood pieces when he came across the bones, some uncovered by erosion and some already washed into the bed of a former stream.

THE READER'S COURTROOM

Tenting in the Subdivision

By Will Bernard, LL.B.

Could You Get Around Building Restrictions By Pitching a Tent?

The restrictions in a new subdivision forbade the erection of any "building" worth less than $10,000. One man who had bought a lot found that he couldn't spend that much money, so he decided to pitch a tent instead! But no sooner had he done so than he was haled into court for violating the restrictions. At the trial, he argued that a tent was not a "building"—and therefore was not covered by the restrictions. However, the court disagreed and ordered the tent removed. The judge said that a building is a "covered structure enclosing space within its walls"—and that certainly includes a tent!

May a Salesgirl Forcibly Retake A Garment From a Customer?

A housewife went to a neighborhood store one morning to buy a topcoat. While she was trying one on, the manager rushed up and cried: "You don't want to buy anything! You are just spying for our competitor across the street!" At the manager's orders, the salesgirl pulled the coat off the astonished woman's shoulders. A few days later, the housewife sued the store for damages. The company admitted its mistake, but insisted that merely removing somebody's coat was "not such a terrible thing." However, the court disagreed and granted the woman's claim. The judge said that the circumstances and the manner of removal were "a wrong and an indignity!"

The mother of a 10-year-old boy told him to come home for lunch every day, instead of eating at the school cafeteria. Although this was against the rules of the school, the boy decided to obey his mother. After a few days, the youngster was suspended from his classes. His enraged mother thereupon sued the school board, charging that a child's parents are the ones to decide where he will eat. But the court upheld the board's rule and told the mother she would just have to give in.

May a Henpecked Husband Suddenly Launch a "Get Tough" Policy?

For 10 long years a man led the life of a henpecked husband, yielding to every whim of his domineering spouse. One day, after a quarrel, she ordered him out of the house—expecting him to come back and beg her forgiveness. But he didn't. Instead he changed his tactics completely. He not only stayed away from his wife but also cursed her lustily every time they met. Soon she was ready for a reconciliation, but her rampaging husband made no move in that direction. To top it all, he finally filed a divorce action—charging his wife with breaking up the marriage. But the court refused to grant the decree, saying that the husband should have made some effort to patch things up. The judge said it wasn't fair for the man to make such a sudden change, after spoiling his wife for so long!

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK FAILS; $400 FIRE WRECKS HOME

El Sobrante's 1949 Fire Prevention Week became a major failure when one of the worst fires in months occurred October 11 at the home of James Ward, 4020 Granado, causing an estimated damage of $400.

Chief Charlie Matteson, of the El Sobrante Fire Department, said the department had little difficulty with the blaze, extinguishing it within a matter of seconds after their arrival He further stated that he wanted to commend Carrol Schwerin for reporting the blaze because, "it had a chance to become a good one if her call had not came in time."

"October is normally a bad month for fires because of the low humidity, high temperatures, and northernly winds from the valleys which are hot, dry, and take the moisture from the air." Chief Matteson said.

He further stated that most of our fires are caused from faulty incenerators. Everyone should check theirs to see if they are constructed of noncombustionable material, if a screen is over the top with holes no larger than one quarter inch wide, and above all, make sure that nothing combustionable is within a ten foot radius.

Matteson has made a tour of inspection of various places of business and reports that he has came upon a number of very bad fire hazards. He said that the proprietors will be notified by mail to clear these hazards, thus eliminating the most minute chance of fire and striking a blow against the greatest destroyer.

Most fires can be easily prevented. The major cause of fires are "little things", carelessness with matches and cigarettes, run-down stoves and heating systems.

Sheldon School Gets New Tables For Kids

Sheldon School now has a fine set of outdoor tables and benches to increase the lunch facilities of the school children. Stumps of the Eucalyptus trees recently removed by E. H. Peerson & Son Contractors, provided a rugged foundation for the tables.

The lumber was donated by the Smith Lumber Company of Oakland and the know-how and elbow grease were furnished by Pat Fahey, General Contractor, assisted by James Bruno and Willard Heide.

The tables were consructed at absolutely no cost to the Sheldon school District, thus saving the district an expenditure of over $100.
